Picnic, cont'd.

Deanna Healy, fashion accessories, has spent most of her vacation time painting and wallpapering her home, so she plans to enjoy these extra days. "I just painted my home inside and out so I can use a few days of rest," Deanna says. "I'll probably just relax and have some fun. The picnic was really fun and I'm glad I went. It was my first one. I'm so thankful for these vacation days and feel really lucky to have won them."

Rosemary Zinniger, merchandise processing, already used one vacation day the week after the picnic and says that she will use the other to make a long weekend and go up north sometime in August.

Ron Lubeck, scheduling, says, "I haven't decided yet what I'll do. I have more vacation time yet to take. I'm taking a few days in September, November and December, so I think I'll take these extra days in October, probably on a Monday and Friday, which will make a nice four day weekend."

Henrietta Dzikowski, import, hasn't the faintest idea what she is going to do with her days but adds, "I'll probably take them and clean house!"

Other vacation day winners were Marianna Kwiek, building services cleaning; Beverly Weinman and Jacqueline Doody, data entry; Wendy Wilds, MOPS.

Renee Bowers, Roy Schroeder's office, won a 13-inch color television when her name was drawn as the employee volunteer winner.

The guest volunteer winner was Tony Valdes, guest of Joan Reyes, data entry. He won a Polaroid camera.

Other prize winners are: Lynn Bulkley, construction, Kodak Disc camera; Elaine Shelest, John Sommerville's office, Kodak instant camera; Jerry Yahrmatter, operations analysis, black and white television; Horst Armbrust, CSD, bug killer; Nancy Priebs, central payroll, AM/FM stereo radio; Karen Dickenson statement accounting, 19-inch color television; Alicia Singer, financial reporting, 10-speed bicycle; John Harry, data processing, AM/FM clock radio; Helena Palazzola, Harold Wilcox's office, tennis racquet.
